Good Morning Debra,

Please use the following summary for the packet and I'll also bring additional information with me on Tuesday if needed.

The Salvation Army Kodiak Transitional Housing Program Summary

- A transitional housing program for up to 10 men and up to 6 women without children who are in need of short-term, clean and sober, structured transitional housing
- Clients attend weekly recovery and case management sessions with a Registered Addiction Specialist to ensure all efforts are made so they can reach their housing and recovery plans and move towards self-sufficiency
- The program is available to Alaska Native and non-native residents of the Kodiak Island area, including several small villages; with preference given to those individuals who have successfully completed an alcohol or substance abuse program and are transitioning back to the community
- The program has an ADA unit that can accommodate clients who are in need of short-term recovery after a medical procedure and Alaska Natives from villages traveling to Kodiak for medical care resulting from alcohol or substance abuse issues
- In the past the transitional housing program has obtained funding from the Alaska Housing and Finance Corporation, we are submitting a grant proposal for FY2015 to continue transitional housing services and add additional greatly needed permanent housing and homeless prevention services for the community as well

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Strong
